

Monmouth University 2017 Literacy Advocate

Monmouth University is an independent, comprehensive institution of higher education committed to excellence and integrity in teaching, scholarship, and service. Through its offerings in liberal arts, science, and professional programs, Monmouth University educates and prepares students to realize their potential as leaders and to become engaged citizens in a diverse and increasingly interdependent world.

Monmouth University has been an integral part of New Jersey higher education since it was established as a junior college in 1933. It received accreditation to grant 4-year Bachelor's degrees in 1956 and in 1995 it received its university charter from the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education.

Over the past years Monmouth University has been a strong supporter of Literacy Volunteers of Monmouth County. They have provided us with interns from the Communications Department to help with our marketing and public relations. We have collaborated with their Education Department to provide teaching opportunities to their ESL teachers who needed hands on experience in teaching English to immigrants, and a number of volunteer tutors have come to LVMC from Monmouth University. They have also offered financial support for our adult and family literacy programs by attending our annual fundraising dinner and purchasing sponsorships or advertisements.

We are proud to honor Monmouth University with our 2017 Literacy Advocate Award for their commitment to excellence in teaching and learning, their empowerment of diversity and service to greater Monmouth County and their commitment to a literate society which engages all citizens with mutual respect in an increasingly interdependent world.
