

Christine Stout 2015 Literacy Advocate

Chris Stout grew up in Union County, NJ where she received her Bachelors of Science in Nursing from Seton Hall University in 1976. She went on to work as a R.N. in three different hospitals in the ICU and the Recovery Room.

Chris has always been an exemplary volunteer. While raising her family in Monmouth County, Chris continued to work part-time in a doctor's office and she was involved with many fundraising projects for community non-profits including Campership of Monmouth County, Horizons Enrichment Program, VNA Health Group Show Houses, and Literacy Volunteers of Monmouth County. Chris is very dedicated to all of the various fundraising projects at her non-profit organizations and she was active as a volunteer at the Rumson County Day School where her children attended and where she joined the Executive Committee of the Parent Council. Chris and her family also raised a puppy for the Seeing Eye in Morristown, NJ. Chris also enjoyed coaching Rumson Recreational soccer and basketball when her children were young.

In 2003 Chris developed her own company, Peninsula Billing Services, Inc. , where she continues to do medical billing for several providers along with consultation for medical billing for providers and patients. Chris lives in Rumson, NJ with her husband, Paul and she is very proud of her three children, Anthony, Julia and Sara. Chris remains dedicated to her community service work with all of the organizations mentioned above.

Literacy Volunteers of Monmouth County is proud to honor Chris Stout with our 2015 Literacy Advocate Award in recognition for her behind-the-scenes work with our fundraising efforts for the past 9 years and her support of our adult and family literacy programs.
